G. A. DUNNINGTON,

The Former Editor of the Intelligencer, Passes Away.

THE SAD EVENT EXPECTED

By the Family, and Friends, But Nevertheless the Blow is a Sad One—Wheeling Friends of the Deceased Receive the News From Fairmont With Deepest Regret—A Sketch of Mr. Dunnington's Career.

Yesterday shortly after noon a telegram was received, announcing the death at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, at Fairmont, of Mr. George A. Dunnington, the former editor of the Intelligencer. The news soon spread over town, and on all sides were heard expressions of regret and of appreciation of the life and work of the deceased journalist.

Last fall, it will be remembered, Mr. Dunnington was stricken by partial paralysis. For a time there were hopes for improvement and possible recovery, but when his condition became worse it was decided to remove him to the home of his father, Mr. R. C. Dunnington, in Fairmont, this state. There he received the tender care of wife, mother, sisters and father, but all their efforts have been in vain, and now death has come to relieve the sufferer.

Mr. Dunnington was born July 17, 1858, the son of R. C. Dunnington, a well known business man of Fairmont. George received a good common school education, and at the age of fifteen he entered the office of the Fairmont West

Virginian, where he was taught the printer's trade. The fire of 1875 in Fairmont destroyed all the newspaper offices. Following this disaster, Mr. Dunnington, associated with Mr. Clarence L. Smith, continued the publication of the Index. It was published during the campaign of 1876. Mr. Dunnington's Republicanism, however, was of such strength that he did not find connection with a Democratic paper congenial, and this induced him to dispose of his interest in the Index to his partner. Going to Indianapolis, he entered the employ of a grain merchant; later he was connected with journalistic ventures in Cincinnati. Returning to Fairmont, in partnership with Owen S. McKinney, he printed the state supreme court records. His next field of labor was in Washington City, where he had secured appointment to a responsible position in the government printing office. After three years' service there he returned to West Virginia, and located at Grafton, where he was editor and proprietor of the Sentinel. From Grafton he came to Wheeling in 1886, becoming telegraph editor of the Intelligencer. Later he was associate editor of the paper, and in 1897, when Mr. Hart went to South America, he succeeded the latter as editor, a position that he filled with marked ability until his fatal illness overtook him last fall. While in Washington he was the Intelligencer's correspondent, and his letters from the national capital attracted wide attention. He was the author of a History of Marion county, published some years ago. While in Washington he was the secretary of the West Virginia Republican Association.

Mr. Dunnington was connected with the First Presbyterian church, of this city. He belonged to but one organization, the Royal Tribe of Joseph, a fraternal insurance order.

December 22, 1897, Mr. Dunnington was married to Miss Florence Kidwell, of Washington City, who survives him.

Mr. Dunnington was a member of Gov. Atkinson's staff, being assistant commissary general with rank of colonel. Formerly he was prominent in the Sons of Veterans, once holding a staff office with the rank of major.

The funeral arrangements had not been made yesterday. It will occur in Fairmont.

The Mrs. Ella Cole Funeral.

The funeral occurred yesterday afternoon, of Mrs. Ella Cole, who died Sunday morning, from the effects of burns received Friday night. The funeral took place from the residence of her son-in-law, J. R. Bryson, the services at the house being in charge of the Daughters of Ruth, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. R. R. Bigger conducted the services at Mt. Zion cemetery. The pall-bearers were: John Cardona, Henry Lewedag, Frank Weldman, Charles Leach, Clem Leach and August Serig.

CHAPLAIN CHIDWICK's description of the blowing up of the warship "Maine" is very interesting. Come and hear him at the Carroll Club Auditorium on Monday evening, March 20th.

THE NEW RAILROAD

Between Uniontown and Wheeling is Now Declared to be a Certainty. Meeting of the Promoters Held in Pittsburgh Monday.

Arrangements were completed Monday, at Pittsburgh, for the construction of a railroad extending from Uniontown to Wheeling, to cost $5,000,000. The corporation projecting the new road is chartered as the Uniontown, Waynesburg & West Virginia Railway Company. Among the stockholders are the following: W. C. Jutte, F. Protzman, sr., Charles Kramer, C. M. Buchanan, John Barrett, Robert Brokaw and A. Jutte.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the company held at the office of C. Jutte & Company, in Pittsburgh, on Monday, says the Pittsburgh Times, it was decided to award contracts for the construction of the road. Work will be begun not later than June 1. It was stated that all of the necessary funds have been acquired for the completion of the project and the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, it being the intention of the company to have about ninety miles of the road in operation within six months.

The railroad will be built ostensibly for the development of the coal and manufacturing interests in the territory which it traverses. The new line will open several new bituminous coal fields in Washington, Westmoreland, Fayette and Greene counties and promises to be a lively competitor for much of the shipping in the Wheeling valley.

Options have been secured by several companies upon extensive coal land and manufacturing sites along the proposed route of the railroad, and just as soon as shipping facilities are present-

SOCIETY.

An event of more than ordinary pretensions, promising to be an unusually brilliant local talent presentation, for which tickets go on sale to-day, occurs at the Opera House to-morrow evening, under the direction of Prof. George M. Delbrugge, "Aurora," the operetta through which those many beautiful fairy, gipsy, maypole and castanet dances occur. Is a beautiful music, song and dramatic score, and calls for some of the best voices in the city, of whom Miss Elsie Gundling and Mr. Jasper C. Baum are prominently cast. The principal characters are the following: Aurora, Goddess of Morn, Miss Sara McLure; Titania, Queen of Fairyland, Miss Elsie Gundling; May Queen, Miss Fannie Hiral; Florine, Queen of Cyprus, Miss Nellie Gilchrist; Bessie, Miss Helen Digby; Dolly, Miss Adelaide Schockey; Nellie, Miss Josephine Robinson; Captain, E. J. Stone; Pat O'Day, Jasper C. Baum; Ching-Chang, Harold Eitz; Rastus, Jule Pollack; Casper, George Hornbrook; James, Willie Baer.

The marriage of Wilson Hoge, son of Dr. Hoge, of Chapline street, formerly of Wheeling, now of Ardmore, Indian Territory, to Miss Ethel Gamble, of Moorefield, W. Va., is announced to take place at high noon Thursday, April 5.

ATTEND the Ideal Oil Painting auction sale, now going on at 1523 Market street, opposite postoffice. Every one a work of art. They will not last long. Come at once and get a bargain. Sale every afternoon and evening.
